Experience

Rebecca Rentz is recognized as a leading lawyer in the environmental field, with extensive experience in the service of both government and private clients. Her leadership in the development of complex, cutting-edge environmental public policy was noted in 2007, when she was named Environmental Regulator of the Year by the Texas Association of Environmental Professionals.

Ms. Rentz advises clients on a wide variety of environmental regulatory, liability, and public policy issues. Her recent experience has focused on air toxics issues, ozone control requirements under the Houston-area State Implementation Plan including associated transportation conformity requirements, and particulate emissions requirements. She also has extensive experience defending state and federal Superfund matters, assisting clients with environmental permitting, and handling the environmental aspects of real estate and financial transactions.
