

INTERNATIONAL PRACTICE

With 410 lawyers in New York, Texas, Washington, D.C., Connecticut, Kazakhstan, London and Dubai, Bracewell & Giuliani is distinctively positioned to serve clients worldwide. In recent years, Chambers Global, the Euromoney Guides, Project Finance, Lexpert and many other international publications and organizations have ranked the firm among the top providers of global legal services.

In particular, we have developed specific practices focused on three geopolitical regions and centers of commerce:

Caspian Region

Bracewell played an early, leading role in helping Kazakhstan create and expand its banking infrastructure, securities markets and commercial legal and court systems. Since then, we have used our global experience to help clients from around the world capture significant opportunities in the Caspian region.

Europe

Our London office, operated by Bracewell & Giuliani (UK) LLP, is located in the centre of the world's financial and capital markets. It works closely with other Bracewell offices, particularly those in Kazakhstan, New York, Dubai and Houston, to provide English, US and local laws services to international clients. The London office's primary focus is on international capital markets, banking, securitisations, structured finance and mergers and acquisitions work, particularly in the emerging markets including Kazakhstan, other countries of the former Soviet Union and the Ukraine.

Latin America

Our Latin America business practice provides a full array of corporate and transactional services throughout the region. We have advised clients in hundreds of engagements in more than a dozen Central and South American countries, with special emphasis on Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Mexico.

Middle East

From our office in Dubai, Bracewell represents domestic and foreign clients engaged in a wide range of industries. Our Middle East practice is a cornerstone of two of the firm's world-class, global practice areas: energy and finance.
