Bracewell's Technology and Telecommunications Practice

Bracewell & Giuliani helps clients develop, protect and deploy innovative technologies in telecommunications, aerospace and defense, nanotechnology and other industries around the world. We provide strategic business, legal and governmental counsel to technology businesses at every stage of their business life — from initial creation and protection of ideas, through development of strong companies and establishment of market leadership, to mergers, acquisitions and other transactions. We help our clients:

- Navigate governmental policies and regulations
- License intellectual property
- Raise capital from venture and angel investors
- Identify and pursue government contracting opportunities
- Secure public equity and debt financing
- Merge, acquire and divest assets
