

GOVERNMENT

Bracewell & Giuliani offers sophisticated counsel on regulatory policy, legislative and administrative advocacy, and government contracts and procurement. From our offices in Washington, D.C., and Austin, Texas, we represent clients before the United States Congress, federal agencies and the judiciary, as well as numerous state agencies and legislatures.

Our services include:

- Developing proactive legislative and regulatory strategies to help shape government actions
- Defending our clients' interests in appropriations and budgeting issues, congressional hearings, tax controversies, trade disputes and regulatory challenges
- Helping clients influence policy development through effective issue promotion and political counseling
- Providing defense and advocacy before administrative tribunals of the federal agencies responsible for regulating energy, labor, foreign trade, telecommunications, securities, commodities and the environment
- Advising on government contracts and resolving contract disputes

Our government-relations team includes former members of the U.S. Congress, a former Comptroller of the Currency, a former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and other presidential appointees. A number of others have served as former general counsels and senior staffers of congressional and state legislative committees.